A LIVELY WEEKLY NEWSPAPER AT HISTORIC APPOMATTOX COURT...

Ready to negotiate

Locals finish cable study

by BILL SHEPHERD

Two local merchants could soon be receiving satellite reception equipment which will enable them to receive the cablevision franchise now held by Appomattox Cablevision. The two have completed a study of the system and are ready to negotiate the purchase with the present owners.

Ronald Coleman and Ray Franklin appeared before the Appomattox Town Council Monday night and told the council they had completed the cable system study and would be ready to negotiate the purchase with the present owners.

Franklin, a Lynchburg resident, is currently serving as town manager, and Coleman, a fire protection engineer, is employed by a fire purchase firm.

Coleman added that he and Franklin, who is a franchise broker, have been negotiating to purchase the cablevision franchise for the past two months. They have been in contact with Dominion Cablevision, Inc., which has been awarded the cable franchise in Appomattox, and the Pennsylvania-based company has been negotiating to sell the franchise to Franklin and Coleman.

Franklin said that Dominion does not agree to the sale of the cablevision franchise to Franklin and if the town is annexed by Appomattox from Dominion's area franchise, the franchise will be revoked.

Coleman added that he and Franklin are ready to negotiate with the present owners for the cable equipment in Appomattox.

Franklin and Coleman also have been negotiating to purchase the cablevision franchise in Pamplin and Prospect.

Franklin and Coleman have been negotiating with the present owners of Appomattox Cablevision for the past two months and have completed a study of the system which they have presented to the Appomattox Town Council
